DEATH CLAIMS GEN. JACK GROSS.

Former United States Marshal
Passes Away At His Home
At Holt.

WAS BURIED HERE.

Gen. A. Jack Gross, one of the most widely known men in Kentucky, died of Bright's disease at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at his home at Holt in Breckenridge county, near this city.

Over a year ago he was born in ill health, and several months ago he went to Louisville for treatment, but his trouble hung on persistently, and in the last two weeks the disease developed with such rapidity that his death was expected. When he came he was accompanied by his wife, an adopted daughter, Mrs. O. DeHaven, and his close friends.

His life was an example of loyalty and industry. He had a wonderful amount of energy, worked hard in time of peace and fought bravely in time of war. Gen. Gross had a barrel of old-fashioned horse sense and a heart full of gratitude. He was very conservative and disliked notoriety.

He was born October 31, 1843, and his mother, a widow, brought him to this place when he was four years of age. His boyhood days were spent here, and when the Civil War broke out he enlisted with Col. William B. Haskins in the Orphan Brigade, under Gen. John C. Breckinridge.

Later he went to Fordsville, where his friend, Col. W. B. Haldeman, died at the Capital Hotel. In 1865 he married Gen. and Mrs. Goss, who made their home on their farm at Holt. Besides being a successful farmer he was an extensive dealer in tobacco.

The funeral of Gen. Gross was held Saturday morning and the interment took place in the Cloverport cemetery at 11:30. The services were beautifully conducted by the Rev. James Lewis. The pall-bearers were: Morris Heard, Thos. Flood, Thos. Tousey, Edward Oglesby, O. Dehaven and Claude Mercer.

BASE BALL.

An exciting game was played Monday afternoon by the Hill Billies and Cow Heelers. Score 15 to 14 in favor of H. B.'s. The Hill Billy team is composed of the following: Everett Noble, Marcus Miller, C. McCracken, Lewis Miller, Carl Mattingly, Joe Miller, Addie Kramer, Walter Weisenberger, Herbert Moorman.

The Cow Heelers team members are: Johnson, Wroe, Herman Lewis, Harry, Wallace Lewis, H. and M. Morrison, Holder and Happy Tate. The game was one of the best that has been played this season.

Mr. Chester Beavin was in Louisville last week.

BEAUTIFUL WEDDING WEDNESDAY LAST.

Miss Margaret Moorman Lovely
Bride And Charming Bridal Party In Methodist Church.

A most beautiful wedding and the first one that has ever taken place in the Methodist church was that of Miss Margaret Wickliffe Moorman and Dr. John Edwards Kincheloe, which was solemnized Wednesday evening of last week at 8:30 o'clock. The Rev. B. M. Currie officiated in the marriage ceremony and the music for the occasion was rendered by Miss Little Muir Waller, an accomplished musician, of Morganfield.

The church was beautifully decorated. An altar of evergreens made a picturesque back ground and the chancel was gorgeously banked with ferns and potted plants.

The groomsmen: Messrs. Tom Moore, Tom Bowmer, Chas. Morris and Claude Mercer entered first and were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Lewis Kincheloe. The bride maids: Misses Ray Heyser, Nancy Kincheloe, Lila Severs and Louise Babbage came next. Their dresses were white and girdled pink, carrying out the color scheme of the church.

Each maid had a pink ribbon laced through it. The matron of honor, Mrs. Margaret Bennett, and the maid of honor, Miss Sue Roberts Watkins preceded the bride and her cousin, Mr. Chas. Moorman, who gave her away. The matron of honor looked very handsome in an exquisite pink dress and the maid of honor wore white silk.

The bride's dress was a lovely white gown and the bridal veil was quite graceful and becoming. She never looked prettier and she won the admiration of over four hundred guests. The maid's flowers were sweet-peas.

The grooms were: Messrs. Chas. Skillman, Chas. Fallon, J. A. Barry and J. C. Nolte. The ribbon girls were Misses Eloise Nolte, Lenora McGavack and Elizabeth Skillman.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wickliffe Moorman gave a delightful reception in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Kincheloe. Only the bridal party and the following were present: Misses Ella and Jane Smith, Miss Marion Bowmer, Wm. and Victor Howmet, Lewis Kincheloe cut the ring from the wedding cake, Miss Ray Heyser, the darning needle, Miss Nancy Kincheloe, the thimble and Mr. Tom Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Kincheloe left for a short bridal trip on the west-bound train at 11 o'clock. They were showered with rice at the station and bid farewell by a large crowd of friends.

Luby Adkisson Dead.

Mr. Luby Adkisson passed away at his home near Lodging Friday night, June 12 after several years of illness. His suffering was great but the end was not expected quite so soon. The funeral was conducted by Mr. Compton Henderson and the interment was in the Woodlawn Cemetery.

He was the husband of Anna, Mrs. and one daughter, Miss Mamie Adkisson, to whom his loss, with a number of friends and relatives.

He was the brother of Andy, Clint, Sam and Dr. S. B. Atkisson. He is also survived by one sister, Miss Mollie Adkisson.

A LATE PICTURE OF SECRETARY TAFT.

HERE is the man whose personality is to become as familiar to all his countrymen as that of Theodore Roosevelt. William Howard Taft during the last year has been presented to the people by the pen of almost every one of our writers who are best able to estimate men. Yet the people's democratic wish to know and know intimately the individual character of a nonentity for the Presidency makes them anxious and eager for more knowledge of him.

The way to get it is to see and talk to the man himself. Each one of his estimators has called Taft simple, sincere and strong. Each has given him modesty and self-restraint. Each has spoken of his approachableness, of his high hearty laugh and his great heart. These are hard characteristics to write on without producing an impression that the writer is overdoing it a bit. Yet a meeting with Mr. Taft is convincing proof that the error has not been on the side of exaggeration.

Mr. Taft does not give one instantaneous impression of himself that Roosevelt does. The effect comes slowly. First, you are surprised to find that this man is not an exceptional place, is so like so many other people that you know. There is no Olympian abstraction about him. He is not thinking of Cuba, or the Philippines when he is shaking hands with you. On the contrary there is the same free direct relationship as that which accompanies an introduction to a man in your own office.

If you have known Mr. Taft before, you get a sounding "Hello" that bids him fair to become as well known as the more familiar "de-lighted." If not, your welcome is more gentle, but you feel that you will be sure to get the "Hello" next time. The fact that you occupy the entire attention of the man makes you certain of it. For there is a solid substratum of honesty beneath the whole proceeding that removes it utterly from the routine political hand-shaking. You like him and you can't help it.

It is a thousand to one that you will be surprised at the physique of William Howard Taft. Not only the cartoons but the photographers have made us all believe that Taft is fat. The same phenomenon is true of Roosevelt, and in a lesser degree of the Kaiser and King Edward, for it is a survival of the heroic tradition to add physical size to the idea of the great ones of the earth.

The man who seems surely destined to enter the White House next March is not fat. He is of large build, but his movements are exact and certain. He does not hoist himself from one foot to the other as he walks, but swings steadily forward like a battle ship that knows where it wants to go and intends to get there.

In fact his frame gives you your first sense of his power and his eyes back it up and drive it home. There is a great deal in those eyes. There is not only the frankness and kindness that goes with their deep blue, but there is settled purpose and wisdom and a wonderful "trustworthiness." They begin to make you understand why the republic has come to hold the man morally and mentally capable of performing the high duties of his chief executive.

This understanding gains force as you talk with Mr. Taft. His voice has a good masculine rumble to it, and his words are not slouched or slurred over, if it means something, and when you think it over you find that this does it part in the exact expression of an idea. Not that Mr. Taft's diction is settled; it is far from that, falling easily into the vigorous and picturesque terms which we Americans have created for our own particular use. But the coming Presidents in his speech the intelligent mind that knows word values as a scholar, a jurist and a statesman must know them.

You will find, too, as the talk progresses, that the kindness and gentleness in Mr. Taft's character are not weakness. He will not be hard or bitter, nor will he fly at you and try to cram his opinions down your throat. On the other hand, he will tell you bravely and squarely what he thinks, and he will not permit for a moment any misconception of his views or any slight, however easy to pass over, upon the principles which he believes to be the most important thing in life.

For after all, what the people want is a President who will see to it that there is no turning back in the policies which the nation has marked out for itself. A talk with William Howard Taft may convince any open-minded American that here is a man firm enough to prevent any recession and mentally able in behalf of the people to meet on an equal ground the master minds of politics, of business and of the world of finance.—Chicago Evening Post.

People who are opposed to the open saloon will have some work on their hands from now until the 22d of August. They had better get right down to business at once too.

The crowned heads all over the world took a deep interest in last week's convention at Chicago. Foreign newspapers gave much of their space to its proceedings. It is said no previous political gathering ever held in the United States attracted so much attention abroad.

Our old friend, Jerry Tilford, has one of the nicest cottage homes it has been our pleasure to visit in a long time. Jerry takes it great pride in his home and family, and next to them is the Henderson Route railroad for whom he has been working for the past eighteen years.

Those who say "it don't pay to advertise," should have been at Hardinsburg Monday to see the rush at B. F. Beard & Co.'s "Red Tag Sale." The anxious bargain-hunters lined up in front of their store 200 strong waiting for the opening which was announced for 8:30 a.m. It was a special sale of buckets for half an hour only, and in fifteen minutes or less time was sold. From the hour of opening to the close their store was crowded with eager buyers. It looked like Christmas times. What the Beards are doing, others can do if they will.

Taft and Sherman suit us all right. It is a winning ticket no matter who the Democrats put up. A majority of the American people are satisfied with the policies inaugurated by Roosevelt and the Republican party, and they do not want a change. For forty years they have carried on this government. They have made us what we are—the greatest nation on earth—a world power. The independent voter sees this and knows it, and what he wants is good government, honest, stable and lasting. And he will stand to the party that gives it to him. The only reward the independent voter wants is good government. He is not after spoils or political preferment. He is not a knocker or a kicker, just a plain, free, American citizen who loves his country for his country's sake, and votes as his conscience dictates.

Beloved Buzz rd.

For several minutes Sunday a bell buzzard was flying ir and ne the residence of J. R. Landreth, near Harlinsburg. Hearing the noise of the bell, Mr. Landreth left the house expecting to find some body's stock in the field, but investigation located the bell tones overhead. Will the bell of the bazaar please repeat when and where he turned the bird loose.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary, in their action against the U. S. Government, have been thoroughly victorious, and vastly enriched in every part, with the exception of the amount of damages and severer requirements of a general nature.

We are of the opinion that this allegation more nearly and accurately describes the work than has been done, and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it stands, has been greatly improved, edited in every detail, has been corrected in every detail, and is now in every way the larger and severer requirements of a general knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is our opinion that what we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest standard, and that in the future in the part it will be the source of the highest standard.

OVERTAXED.

Hundreds Of Cloverport Readers
Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed;
Have too much to do.
They tell about it in many aches and pains—

Backache, sideache, headache,
Early symptoms of kidney ills
Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

Thomas D. Duff, living on Main St.,
Elizabethtown, Ky., says: "Some two or three years ago I began to suffer from my kidneys. I had a severe pain across the small of my back which continued to grow worse, to a man of my occupation is forced to do a great deal of stooping it aggravated the trouble.
I tried various plasters but they did not give me the slightest relief. I then saw Doan's Pills advertised and as they were highly recommended I cured a cure. They were right to the cause of the trouble and the short use enabled me to complete cure. (Above statement was given on April 9th, 1903.) The Cure Proved Permanent.
Mr. Duff confirmed what he had previously said regarding Doan's Kidney Pills on June 13, 1907 in the following words: "Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me sometime ago I have not had a return of the trouble and cheerfully give Doan's Kidney Pills my hearty recommendation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo,
New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MEMBER 54TH CONGRESS U. S.

Recommends Pe-ru-na.

HON. W. E. ANDREWS.

Nebraska has furnished to the National Congress one of the brightest minds that have adorned the great national legislature. A nation of pinch and men of great oratorical and intellectual resources, men who have done much to shape the destinies of the great western section of our country.

Among these modern statesmen of that versatile, American type, is Hon. W. E. Andrews, of Hastings, Nebraska. Hon. Andrews was formerly Vice President of Hastings College, and established an excellent record as a promulgator of public education before he became a member of Congress. Speaking of Peruna, he says:

"I cheerfully recommend the preparation, Peruna, as a healthful tonic and a successful remedy for catarrh in its various forms." —Hon. W. E. Andrews.

Hon. Thomas Cole, who was elected to Congress from Alaska, is well known to the Pacific slope, where he has resided. His Washington address is 1312 Ninth street, N. W., Washington, D. C. Congressmen Cole writes of Peruna:

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna as a very efficient remedy for cough and cold."

Some people prefer to take tablets rather than to take medicine in a fluid form. Such people can obtain Peruna tablets, which represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

Mr. Boss Craig, Fork Vale, Tenn., had catarrh of the head for two years and had abandoned all hope of being cured, but to his surprise Peruna cured him sound and well.

Miss Ruth Norton, of Webster, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Owen Parks, this week.

Mrs. Morgan Chappel and son, Chester, spent Sunday with Mrs. John Burkhardt.

Oral Coomes and Clate Norton were here Saturday.

Miss Blanche Payne is visiting her sister, Mrs. Clara Hall.

Bread is the Staff of Life!

A Little Common Sense Bread Talk.

First, I want to thank my friends and customers for their kind patronage of last season. I have always done my best to make the best quality of goods. I use nothing but the very best materials, therefore my goods are always pure and wholesome. I have enlarged my shop for this season, and I have more room and better ventilation than ever before. I am prepared to keep my shop as pure and clean as any shop in the country.

I feel it my duty as a friend of the people to recommend my goods in my behalf as well as yours. First, it is our duty to take care of our health. "Eat nothing that is likely to carry germs or disease into the system." "Good, pure, fresh bread is the Main food."

So beware, and be SURE that it IS fresh and pure and has had no chance to absorb or take in germs of any sort that might be carried into the system.

"PROTECT HOME INDUSTRY and let home industry protect you." Get your Bread direct from the oven to the customer, and avoid all possibilities of germed or diseased Bread. Your Home Baker will gladly furnish you his Bread pure and fresh.

My wagon makes two trips daily, morning and evening. When you hear the Horn Blow, if you will kindly step out to the wagon you may be supplied with BREAD, ROLLS, CAKES, PIES, Etc. If you buy tickets we will sell you size for twenty-five cents. A net saving of twenty cents to the dollar.

For your benefit take my advice. Don't eat Bread that has been baked and then packed in old baskets and shipped all over the country to various places in cars with all kinds of fowls, dogs, hogs, calves, dead people and baggage of all sorts. And then the baskets thrown out on the side-walk and used as a stool for all classes of people that desire to sit on them and whittle, tell fish stories and kill time.

We make and can furnish you daily from the oven: SNOWFLAKE, CREAM, GRAHAM and SALT-RISING, all full pound loaves.

Thanking one and all for past favors, I remain yours for health,
